Deer, Turkey and Timber! Seclusion in a very good area for quality white-tails. Located in Clay County about 2.5 miles SE of Xenia near the Wayne County line.

Guys, you know I could show you pictures of big tracks, big rubs or some deer camera picture of a giant deer and you all have no idea of the authenticity of them. So let's look at what the facts concerning this property are rather than some realtor showing you a bunch of unsubstantiated photos.

The neighborhood: Likely more than 50% timberland. There is a block of timber more than several 100 acres nearly all upland hardwoods. This timber has small open areas of crops, CRP or new growth from expired CRP contracts. A small drainage cuts the SE corner and another drainage is just West of the property. To the West one landowner owns all but 40 acres of the West half of the section. To the North a very conservation-minded family owns 200+ acres and to the South to the SE one family has a block of 200+ acres. My point, not a lot of small landowners which has a tendency of being a good thing when talking good deer hunting and you have something here to build on! You want to kill good deer? Then this property is buildable for just that! Long narrow food plot on the West end, another sizable plot in the NE corner and let's say some switch grass or another plot in the SW corner. There is certainly harvestable timber now and maybe that could be utilized to "thicken" up some areas for some better bedding areas. A few
